

OFFICIALS HOPE TO RECOVER PN-9-1 AND HER CREW

RELIEF FROM HEAT SUNDAY
IS PROMISEDStormy Forces of Old
Jupiter Pluvius Due
Next Week

BULLETIN

At 1 o'clock this afternoon the government thermometer at the Arlene Lord home on First ave., this city, registered 96 degrees above, four degrees lower than the high point of Friday. Cloudy skies today can be thanked for nullifying the weatherman's prediction Friday of "warmer Saturday."

Chicago, Sept. 5.—Cooling zephyrs sweeping out of the Canadian northwest today were forecast as a vanguard of the stormy forces of Jupiter Pluvius bringing success, within a day or so, of the scorching grasp of Old Sol on the middle west, lower lake region and the south.

A foretaste of the long-awaited showers has come to parts of North Dakota, Iowa and Wisconsin. But elsewhere record high temperatures have brought deaths, drought damage and suffering.

More than a month of aridity was broken when a quarter inch of rain fell in Fargo, N. D. Jamestown, N. D., also was visited by the welcome showers. High winds and hail accompanied the downpour in Grinnell, Iowa, causing property damage of $40,000, while damage of $10,000 occurred near Chippewa Falls, Wis., in an electrical storm following a heat wave.

Broke Heat Records

But elsewhere in the stricken areas, temperatures above the hundred mark broke weather bureau records of years. Harrisburg, in southern Illinois reported a maximum of 108 with August 4, a close second, with 106. Most of Iowa, except parts touched by storms, was a seething furnace. Sheldon experienced 106 for several hours yesterday. Des Moines highest was 97 with one serious prostration and others of a minor nature there and elsewhere in the state. Slight showers in Des Moines only increased the humidity.

Schools were dismissed yesterday in Omaha because of 100 degree heat and Springfield and Aurora, Illinois, youngsters also had a holiday. Poplar Bluffs, Mo., thermometers registered 105; Birmingham, Ala., 104 and Chattanooga, Tenn., 102.

Wells Are Evaporating

Evaporating wells in rural sections of Kentucky are a cause of much concern. Farmers in sections of the Illinois corn belt, facing a similar problem, are resorting to hauling water from distant brooks and creeks to replenish cisterns and wells.

Except in St. Louis, where the fourth death during the torrid wave was recorded, yesterday, the area singularly has been free of fatalities. Chicago's congested population sought refuge on Lake Michigan beaches and slight breezes blowing from the lake, brought some relief to stay at home.

The mercury in Chicago yesterday climbed 28 degrees in seven hours to 99 degrees, the hottest Sept. 4, in more than 50 years save one. Other Illinois points reported similar record breakers. Quincy and Centralia had 102 and Rockford 101.

No relief for several days is forecast for Kansas, parts of which have been cloudless since August 20. Kansas City with a 99 degree maximum yesterday, is promised 100 or more today.

Tomorrow will be observed as a day of fasting and prayer in South Carolina for relief from heat and drought as a result of a proclamation by Governor McLeod.

FEAR CHILD MURDERED

Mont Clair, Ill., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Blood stains on the front seat of the automobile in which Mary Daly, six year old daughter of Dave F. Daly, well-to-do New York hardware dealer, was held by the kidnapper who carried her away yesterday noon, have given rise to the belief that the child is dead.

Twenty-four hours search by posses, detectives and special officers resulted in the finding of the car in a road in upper Mont Clair this afternoon in a condition indicating that it had been hard driven. Witnesses of the kidnapping agree that the child was held in the front seat.

DeKalb Man Is Found

DeKalb, Ill., Sept. 4.—After having been dead 54 hours from heart failure, Albert Nelson, 49, was found in the hallway of his home today with a suitcase in one hand. He lived alone. Nelson was on his way to visit two sisters, Mrs. Rose Stimpfle and Mrs. Emma Steele of Columbus, O. A telegram from Columbus started the inquiry. He will be buried at once.

Cousin of Mrs. H. C.
Pitney of Dixon One of Shenandoah's Dead

Lt. A. R. Houghton of Alston, Mass., watch officer of the ill-fated U. S. Navy dirigible Shenandoah, which was wrecked in Ohio in a storm Thursday morning, was one of the fourteen who met death in the disaster. Lt. Houghton was a cousin of Mrs. H. C. Pitney of this city.

MITCHELL BITTER IN ATTACKS ON
AERIAL SERVICEDeposed Air Chief Predicts
His Arrest Before
Monday

San Antonio, Sept. 5.—(AP)—Predicting that he will be placed under military arrest by Monday because of what he says, Col. William Mitchell, air officer of the 8th corps area, and deposed assistant chief of the air service, this morning issued a bitter denunciation of the war department and the navy department in connection with the disaster which befell the Shenandoah and the seaplane PN-9-1 lost on an attempted hop to Honolulu.

The statement was issued "after mature deliberation and after a sufficient time has elapsed since the terrible accidents to our naval aircraft to find out what happened." To quote from the statement:

"The accidents are the direct result of incompetency, criminal negligence and almost treacherous administration of the national defense by the war and navy departments," he wrote.

Hits Both Departments

Charging that both the army and navy departments have gone to the utmost lengths of keeping down the development of aviation, and to maintain aeronautics as a part of the two departments, Col. Mitchell said that all aviation policies are directed by non-flying officers who "know nothing about flying and that lives of airmen are being used merely as pawns in their hands."

The stormy petrel of the air service took a direct slap at the war department for the treatment accorded him when he said:

"The airmen themselves are bluffed and bulldozed so that they aren't tell the truth, knowing full well they will be deprived of their future careers, sent to the most out-of-the-way places to prevent their telling the truth, and deprived of all chances for advancement unless they subscribe to the dictates of their non-flying bureaucratic superiors."

Col. Mitchell asserted that "the conduct of the war and navy departments has been so disgusting in the last few years as to make any self-respecting officer ashamed of the cloth he wears."

Col. Mitchell spent all of Friday.

NEW "EVERGREEN"
SCHOOL BUILDING
READY FOR TERMOne of Finest Country
Schools in County Dedicated Friday

Friday, though hot and dusty, was a day long to be remembered by the patrons of the Evergreen school, Dist. 62, who at the noon hour to dedicate the new building. This school, formerly known as the Hollister school, is located about six miles southeast of Dixon in a prosperous and intelligent community. The substantial new school building is situated in a yard surrounded by beautiful trees of various types, evergreens being in the majority—hence the christening of the school "Evergreen."

The structure is of two stories, the second floor comprising a commodious assembly room, equipped with modern facilities, which may be used for neighborhood gatherings of various nature. To the east of the assembly room are three smaller rooms, two for cloak rooms and one for a library. In the basement are a large playroom, well lighted and ventilated, and a furnace room. The school conforms with all state requirements as to lighting, heating and ventilation, and is without doubt one of the best rural school buildings in Lee county.

Much credit for the erection of so fine a school building is due the directors of the district: John Huyett, Percy Wright and Clarence Bothe, who devoted much of their time to make the project a success. The contractor, A. Trimble, also deserves credit for his steady and efficient workmanship. At the southeast corner of the building is a marble slab, on which have been carved the names of the directors and the contractors. Mrs. Abbie Hays is the teacher for the coming year, which will begin Tuesday, Sept. 8.

Afternoon Exercises.
At 1 o'clock all present at the dedication partook of a bounteous dinner, served on two long tables in the basement, the menu being: fried chicken, potato salad, sandwiches, baked beans, cold slaw, fruit salad, pumpkin pie, nuskmelon, ice cream and cake.

After the dinner exercises were held in the assembly room, where Co. Supt. of Schools L. W. Miller gave an inspiring and instructive address, and Mrs. Martha Shippert favored with a patriotic reading.

Those present from outside the district were: Mrs. Martha Shippert, Burton Reed and family, Supt. and Mrs. L. W. Miller, Lee Wallace and family, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Huyett, Rueben Wright and family, Mrs. Theresa Brimblecom and daughter, Stata, Misses Lorraine Frazer, Carolyn Shaver, Mary Ellen Brown and Charlotte Hays.

BIG PILE DRIVER
CRUSHED MAN TO DEATH FRIDAYFather of Two Killed
Under Derrick on Route Forty

Knocked down by a heavy derrick boom and then crushed beneath the weight of a pile driving hammer released when the boom broke, Leo Brunner, 27, of Stockton, was killed Friday morning while working on a new bridge south of that city.

The derrick is a new one installed by the county on Route 40, about ten miles south of Stockton. When the boom and its supports gave way, Brunner had only a second's warning and no time to leap to safety. The boom struck him on the head, knocking him unconscious to the ground and then the pile driving hammer fell upon his body, terribly crushing his right side. He died before a physician could administer aid.

The accident victim is a farmer who had been working as a laborer with the bridge building gang. He is survived by a wife and two small children.

Bankruptcy Petition
Filed Against Farmer

A petition of involuntary bankruptcy has been filed in the federal court in Freeport against Ferdinand Jacobs, a wealthy landowner residing in Jordan township, Whiteside county. The petition alleges that Jacobs committed an act of bankruptcy on August 12, 1925, when he gave a trust deed to the State Bank of Sterling on land valued at $50,000 and that he committed a further act of bankruptcy on August 13, 1925, when he assigned, by warranty deed, seventeen pieces of town property in Sterling and Rock Falls to his wife, Jennie Jacobs.

The petitioning creditors together with the amount of their claims are as follows: Elmer H. Hess, Van Petten, Ill., $7,832.50; John F. Weber, Sterling, $1,000; Moses Dillon company, Sterling, $407.79.

Last Concrete Poured
Between DeKalb, Genoa

Sycamore, Ill., Sept. 4.—The last stretch of concrete paving between DeKalb and Genoa has been poured by the cement crews and this section of route No. 23 will be opened to the public in three weeks. Work of pouring cement on the highway north of Marengo has been finished for a distance of three miles and it is expected that it will be completed by Harvard by Thanksgiving. This paved route will, when completed, connect Harvard with LaSalle, via Marengo, Genoa, DeKalb and Sycamore.

Chevrolet Dealers of District Had Meeting

A delegation of a hundred dealers and agents for the Chevrolet Motor company in zone 11, comprising cities in Illinois from Streator to Savannah, gathered in Dixon last evening to attend a special program arranged by the company and given in the Family theater. Sales promotion talks were made by H. W. Wayne, assistant manager, given by C. R. Alexander, branch manager and Oscar Mall, sales manager, all of Chicago.

TWO BROKE JAIL;
RANSACKED CAFE;
ARRESTED AGAINWanderers Sentenced to State Farm in Ogle
County Court

Oregon, Ill., Sept. 4.—Arrested as loiterers, William Marshall, 45 years old, who gave the wide word as their address, were placed in bull pen of city jail at Rochelle Thursday.

Several hours later the two had forced their way out of jail, and were looting a restaurant where they obtained a quantity of food. Re-arrested in a wooded spot near Rochelle where they had prepared a banquet of their ill-gotten victuals, late last night, the two were brought to Oregon today and given sentences of six months at Vandell state prison farm.

Among the articles stolen from the restaurant by the two wanderers was a can of Dutch Cleanser. Both admitted that they had mistaken it for a can of condensed cream and that it was the only disappointment in their preparations for a banquet in the forest.

Fertile Door of Jail

The two were arrested by A. D. Hodges, chief of police of Rochelle on Thursday, the chief acting on the belief that it would be better to have the pair spend the night in the city jail than to be at large. The jail was not strong enough to hold the duo however. They forced the door to obtain freedom.

Al Robbins, night marshal in Rochelle, after discovering that the two had fled began a search for the pair. He was assisted by Robert Van Kirk, night railroad station agent. They found the pair enjoying a feast of stolen food and the two were returned to jail, where they were carefully guarded during the night.

Thank Prosecutor

Charges of petit larceny were filed against the two by Martin Peterman, state's attorney, and the men were tried before Judge Leon Zick in county court today. Both feared that the judge would send them to state prison for long sentences. When the court gave them sentences of six months at the state farm they both thanked the state's attorney for not filing more serious charges and promised to give Ogle county a wide berth in the future.

Judge Leon Zick, Polo,

H. K. Gillman, who has been day ticket agent at the Illinois Central passenger station for the past four years has been promoted to the agency for the railroad at Rutland, Ill., which position he expects to take in a week or ten days.

BROKEN WATER
MAINS HAMPER
FIRE FIGHTINGShreveport, La. Scene of Costly Blaze in the Night

Shreveport, La., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Nine city blocks embracing more than 250 dwellings in which lived more than 1,000 persons, were leveled here last night and early today by a fire which broke out shortly after some mighty force had wrecked the city water mains in three places.

Property loss was estimated early today at upwards of $500,000 exclusive of losses by public utilities. Three blocks of the fire-wrecked area were occupied by homes of moderately well-to-do persons while the remaining six blocks, which extended up to the business district, housed poorer persons and negroes.

The fire originated in the bath room of a home and whirled by a heavy wind, quickly got beyond control. Flimsy structures in its path were pulled down and hundreds of persons formed bucket brigades in an effort to stem the rushing tide of flame.

For five hours the houses were left virtually at the mercy of the fire until the breaks in the mains were repaired and water pressure restored.

JONES FOUR UP AT END OF THIS MORNING'S PLAYChampion Well On His Way to Repeat in Golf Tourney

Oakmont, Pa., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Bobby Jones of Atlanta was well on his way to his second successive national amateur championship today, when he led Wattle Gunn, his youthful fellow citizen by four up at the end of the morning round of 18 holes.

Jones shot a 79, two under par to gain his advantage. Gunn, holding him square at the turn, added materially by an eagle three at the fourth. Both shot better than par for the first nine, Bobby having a 36 and Gunn 35. Par is 37.

At the end of the ninth hole, Jones and Gunn were all square. Gunn had halved the first in four and also halved the second, with the third halved in another four. The youngster took the fourth and Jones the fifth with a birdie three. Jones also won the sixth and eighth, Gunn winning the seventh and ninth, all square.

Gunn won the tenth and retained his one hole advantage when they halved the eleventh. The twelfth also was halved. Jones took the thirteenth again squaring the match. He won the fourteenth and fifteenth and the sixteenth was halved. Bobby took the seventeenth and eighteenth holes leaving him four up on the morning round.

of Tragedy

BULLETIN.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Caldwell, O., Sept. 5.—(AP)—It was definitely determined this morning that the giant dirigible Shenandoah buckled in mid-air and separated in parts before falling to the ground.

Caldwell, O., Sept. 5.—(AP)—The much sought barograph and records from the Shenandoah have been found and many of the naval authorities in determining the cause of the disaster. The barograph was located at Cambridge and the log sheets therefrom, at a short distance away. They were in the hands of souvenir seekers.

The authorities have not had time as yet to check the reading on the barograph records.

The record is to be photographed and enlarged so that the authorities can more easily determine the altitude during the storm and before the storm.

Captain George W. Steele, Jr., commanding officer of the Lakehurst naval station arrived at 8:55 a. m. He immediately set out with Commander J. H. Klein and other Lakehurst officials to visit the scene of the wreck at Ava and Sharon.

The barograph record will show air pressure, atmospheric moisture and temperature. From the graph drawn on the automatic drum by a moving stylus it will be possible to compute how rapidly the Shenandoah rose in the buffeting of the storm before the buckling amidship occurred.

If found necessary, Captain Steele and the other Lakehurst officials will follow overland the path taken by the drifting prow of the ship after it left the aft portion, they said as they departed. Should they follow that course they will be obliged to climb hills and cross ravines. Most of the day may be consumed in the investigation.

Last of Dead Removed

Belle Valley gave up the last of her Shenandoah dead today. Fully realizing the duty thrust so suddenly upon them, the 300 simple folks of the village sought to bar morbidly curious and otherwise to maintain reverence for the fourteen victims of the dirigible's final clash with the elements, which early Thursday morning wrought her asunder.

The flag draped and flower adorned, the last four caskets this morning were started on their final journey.

The body of Lieut. Commander Louis Hancock of Austin, Texas, was sent to Arlington, Va., for burial in the National Cemetery along with other officers killed in the crash.

Bodies Sent Home

The body of Lieut. A. R. Houghton, Alston, Mass., was dispatched to Brookline, Mass. Binghamton, N. Y., was the destination of the body of Machine Mate J. W. Cullman. The body of Chief Machinist Charles Broom was sent to his home in Atlantic City.

Marathon Swim Under Auspices of Y. M. C. A.

Quincy, Ill., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Twenty swimmers competed in the marathon from Quincy to Hannibal, Mo., a distance of twenty-two and a half miles, given under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. which started here at 5 o'clock this morning.

Representatives from Keokuk, Ia., Hannibal, Mo., Hamilton and Quincy, Illinois, and a number of cities along the Mississippi and several from inland towns participated.

The banks of the river for a long distance out of here were lined with spectators and life craft followed the swimmers all the way. The event is one of the largest of its kind held in the middle west, and has attracted much attention, a nationally known news weekly taking pictures of the swim.

Farmer Lost $550 at Belvidere Co. Fair

Belvidere, Ill., Sept. 4.—A pickpocket working Boone county fairsgrounds Thursday afternoon, obtained $550 in currency and checks from the person of Fred Flint, a farmer living a few miles south of Belvidere, shortly after Flint arrived on the grounds. No trace of the thief has been obtained.

Hopeful of Finding

BULLETIN

Washington, Sept. 5.—(AP)—Captain S. E. Moses, commanding the Hawaiian flight project, reported to the navy department today that an analysis of the situation "gives reason to hope for the recovery today" of Commander Rodgers and the missing seaplane PN-9-1.

BULLETIN

San Francisco, Calif., Sept. 5.—(AP)—It is expected that the 18 destroyers dispatched from Samoa, at which port they had called returning from the Australian visit, would be in the searching zone by tomorrow to add their efforts for the hunt of the PN-9-1.

Honolulu, Sept. 5.—(AP)—The work of wrestling from the sea its secret of the whereabouts of the missing seaplane PN-9-1, was underway today with renewed intensity.

Eighteen destroyers were rushing towards the scene by breaking away from the fleet detachment returning from the Antipodes.

From the east the airplane carrier Langley, with a cargo of scout planes aboard, was cruising to the vicinity where search was being carried on for the missing plane, which was a victim of a fuel shortage while on a non-stop flight from San Francisco to Honolulu five days ago.

The destroyers will augment the forces on sea and air which have been cruising for days in search of the plane, the last word from which included this laconic message:

"We will crack it if we have to land in this rough weather with no motor power."

With the patrol base at Lahaina abandoned a new base for airplanes will be put in operation on the westernmost island of the archipelago, Kauai. The spot, which is inhabited by few, contains many inaccessible coasts which will provide a new searching ground for those in quest of the missing birdmen and their plane.

New and larger rescue efforts are being put forth by naval forces in this district in the search for the missing seaplane, which disappeared nearly 90 hours ago somewhere on the Pacific not many miles from the Hawaiian Islands. Faint hope for the safety of Commander John Rodgers and his four companions were aroused when the tender Whippoorwill reported that three widely separated flares had been seen on Tuesday night.

Scout Plane Forced Down.

A naval scout plane, piloted by Lt. Peterson, was forced down yesterday off the coast of the island of Kauai. The identity of the plane was unknown for many hours and led to a long PN-9-1. This was corrected by report that it was probably the missing seaplane. Peterson, as Lt. Peterson was able to make effective repairs and take the air, navy officials considered the incident so slight that it was not then reported to the press.

Surface ships, submarines and airplanes are pressing an intensive search. A submarine screen after covering hundreds of square miles without sighting the missing plane or any wreckage is proceeding southward in the belief that the plane may have drifted in that direction. Destroyers accompanying the fleet which is returning from Australia and Samoa are also being rushed to Hawaiian waters to join in the search in the faint hope that the ocean may give up its secret.

Flying Traveler Was Visitor Here This A. M.

Milton P. Miller, representing the George O. Warner Co., of Dayton, O., manufacturers of miniature airplanes, who claims to be the only commercial traveler who covers his territory by airplane, circled over Dixon this morning in the interests of the Mulehide Roofing Co. and the Dixon Home Lumber Co. He dropped coupons entitling the finders to redeem them for miniature planes at the Home Lumber Co. office.

K. K. K. Naturalization
South of Dixon Friday

The attention of motorists passing on route 2 about five miles south of Dixon last night was attracted to a big fiery cross which burned for several hours in a field near the highway. The occasion was a cross of naturalization which was attended by a large assemblage of Klansmen from throughout Lee county.

Serene, I fold my hands and wait,
Nor care for wind nor tide nor sea;
I have no more 'gainst time or fate,
For lo! my own shall come to me.

I stay my haste, I make delays—
For what avails this eager pace?
I stand amid the eternal ways
And what is mine shall know my face.

Asleep, awake, by night or day,
The friends I seek are seeking me,
No wind can drive my bark astray,
Nor change the tide of destiny.

What matter if I stand alone?
I wait with joy the coming years;
My heart shall reap where it has sown,
And garner up its fruit of tears.

The waters know, their own, and draw
The brook that springs in yonder height;
So flows the good with equal law
Unto the soul of pure delight.

The stars come nightly to the sky;
The tidal wave unto the sea;
Nor time, nor space, nor deep, nor high,
Can keep my own away from me.
—John Burroughs.

Missionary Meeting Enjoyed Thursday

The Women's Foreign Missionary Society of the M. E. church met on Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Fred Weststreet, with a fairly good attendance for the day, which was extremely hot.

The meeting opened in the usual manner, with the singing of a hymn and the devotionals which were conducted by Mrs. Thomson. The business was soon taken care of after which a short program was enjoyed. First was a beautiful vocal duet by the Misses Helen and Alice Tradewell. A piano number by Miss Alberta Peterson was much enjoyed, and at a hearty applause she again played. Mrs. Deutsch gave a group of short readings which closed the program. A social hour was enjoyed while ice cream and cake were served.

POPULAR DEKALB COUPLE MARRIED

Glenn, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Roberts, of DeKalb, and Myrtle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Peterson, of that city, were united in marriage at Rockford Saturday. Both are highly respected young people, whose many friends are extending congratulations. The groom has a number of relatives in Rochelle and vicinity.

ARE GUESTS AT HOUSE PARTY AT HEINZE HOME

Menus for the Family

BY SISTER MARY.

Breakfast—
Stewed prunes, cereal, thin cream, crisp whole wheat toast, milk, coffee.

Luncheon—
Ham toast, lettuce salad, graham, graham bread, oatmeal drop cookies, apple sauce, milk, tea.

Dinner—
Broiled lamb chops, steamed and buttered rice, creamed carrots, endive salad, caramel ice cream, sponge cake, milk, coffee, whole wheat bread.

The home toast is a "left-over" made with remnants of baked ham. Children under six years of age should be served plain stewed tomatoes on toast with a poached egg topping the whole. So if there are juniors in your family use enough tomatoes to serve them before adding the ham.

Ham Toast.
Three tomatoes, 4 eggs, 3 tablespoons butter, 1/4 cup chopped ham, 1 tablespoon minced onions, 1/4 teaspoon pepper, 4 teaspoon salt, 4 triangles buttered toast.

Peel tomatoes and chop. Melt butter, add onion and tomatoes and simmer fifteen minutes. Add ham and cook until the ham is thoroughly heated. Remove from fire, add eggs slightly beaten and return to a low fire. Cook, stirring constantly until mixture thickens. Season with salt and pepper and pour over toast.

CYNTHIA GREY SAYS—

Why a King Became "Wild."

There is a lesson for parents in the story of King Edward VII of England.

He was, as the world knows, as merry a monarch as ever lived. London still echoes with stories of his all-night parties and his flirtations.

Sir Sidney Lee, in a new biography, explains this middle-aged gayety by picturing Edward's early life.

As a child he was never allowed any freedom. Even as a young man his strong-minded mother, Queen Victoria, insisted that he obey his in all things.

When he was 34 years old, she wrote to him and told him always to be in bed by 10 o'clock at night. She scolded him for putting his hands in his pockets when he walked along the street, for his use of slang, and for his slouching gait.

Once during his later life, he had to borrow some money from a friend to tip a waiter.

"I was allowed no money as a boy," he explained, "and so I got out of the habit of carrying any."

And then he added sadly, "But I had no boyhood."

That was the explanation of his belated gayety and "wildness." He had his boyhood when other men have settled down to the seriousness that middle life brings.

I think this is true of a great many

This new coat for early fall, shown by Styles Service Syndicate, looks as though it ought to become very popular with young women. It is of suede, extremely trimmed with beaver, the straight simplicity of its lines being emphasized by the buttons at the side.

of the men of mature age whom we see today in cabarets and "jazzy" restaurants. They are like Leonard Merriek's "Conrad in Quest of His Youth."

They want the dances and the good times that they missed in their careless teens and twenties. Sometimes they are men who married too young. But more often they are men whose parents forbade them to have that light-hearted freedom and merry-making that is the right of youth.

If you, who read this, are a parent, see to it that your young have the things that belong to them... music and laughter, a certain freedom and happiness.

Esler-Wadsworth Marriage Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Esler of Chicago announce the marriage of their daughter, Bernice, to Elwin S. Wadsworth, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Wadsworth of this city.

The ceremony was solemnized at 9:30 on the evening of Friday, Aug. 25th, at St. Paul's church on the Midway at 6th and Dorchester avenue, Chicago. Rev. Harrison, pastor of the church, officiated at the ceremony.

Preceding the ceremony Mrs. Charles Salee sang, "I Love You," followed by the Lohengrin's Bridal Chorus as the bridegroom, with his best man, Douglas Wadsworth, of Sterling, Ill., and the officiating minister, Rev. Harrison entered, to be met at the altar by the bride, and her bridesmaid, Miss Helen Kruehl of Columbus, O.; and her matron of honor, Mrs. Charles Salee of Chicago.

The bride was attired in a beautiful gown of white georgette over white satin. She wore a veil caught with orange blossoms. She carried a handsome shower bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley. The matron of honor wore pale green georgette, and the bridesmaid wore orchid georgette each carrying beautiful bouquets of rose buds.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held at the bride's home for relatives and friends. After congratulations a delicious two-course luncheon was served. The decorations were gladioli and ferns and the bride's cake graced the center of the table.

The bride is a young woman of winsome personality and has a wide circle of friends who wish her much happiness. The bridegroom is connected with Swift & Co., Chicago. He is an estimable and progressive young man with hosts of friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Wadsworth left immediately after the luncheon to spend two weeks in Michigan, and on their return will be at home to their friends, at 6943 East End avenue, Chicago.

Triangle Club in Happy Meeting

The Triangle club of the Christian church met Thursday evening at the home of Dorothy Prescott.

Mrs. Margaret Lansdowne (right), says that her husband, Com. Zachary Lansdowne, protested against taking the Shenandoah on a western trip this week because of the probability of frequent storms. She charges Secretary of the Navy Wilbur overruled Lansdowne's recommendations that the flight be delayed until Oct. 15 because the secretary wanted "to play politics by sending the ship over the middle west." At the left is Mrs. Betsy Ross Lansdowne of Greenville, O., mother of the dead commander, who is shown in the center.

Brenner Family Reunion Held

A number of Dixon people were among those present at the Brenner family reunion which was held Sunday, August 23rd, at Lowell Park. A picnic dinner at noon was a feature of the affair and the remainder of the time was enjoyed in various manners.

THE PUBLIC'S PART.

John L. Lewis, as head of the union of miners, has criticized the interstate commerce commission for facilitating the movement of substitutes for anthracite coal, so that the people of the north who have been using hard coal may have fuel.

He said the commission was taking the side against the miners, or words to that effect.

Mr. Lewis forgets the public, or else he misjudges the public. The interstate commerce commission represents the public. The families of the machinist, the molder, the carpenter, the plumber, the printer, the butcher, the baker constitute the public. If the leader of the miners thinks the people are going to sit supinely by and freeze while the miners and operators deadlock, he will learn something in this strike. Probably he doesn't think so, only talks that way to impress the miners.

This is one time when the public agencies are not meddling in the anthracite strike. The public says, Go it, man; go it, bear; and looks out for itself.

There are only a few labor disputes in which the public is interested. Of these, one involves transportation, another involves fuel. Once in a while there is something like the Boston police strike, about which one Calvin Coolidge made some tense remarks.

In these matters the public has rights above those in controversy. Railroads possess only such rights as they are given by the public. Mine owners hold their property only by rights created by public. Once upon a time there was a man named Baer, who thought that the mines were given to his group by divine right to administer for the people. He's dead. He failed to convince the public in his contention, so there was no scrambling for the mantle when it fell.

It is possible to make the public suffer once or twice, but it is not well to try the people too often, for they learn how to get out of their trouble. Even if the miners go back to work, the anthracite industry is paying daily for the loss of business occasioned by annual threats of strikes. Hard coal consumption has been reduced in two years from 29 to 17 percent of the fuel used.

In view of this strike it is quite probable that the next two years will find the use of anthracite further reduced.

Mr. Lewis, the miners and the operators must remember that while there is no law to prevent such deadlocks as they have brought on, there is plenty of law by which the country may use its own agencies to prevent freezing and starvation.

UPHOLD AUTO THEFT LAW.

The United States supreme court has held to be constitutional the Dyer act, which makes it a crime to transport a stolen automobile from one state to another. It was under that act that John P. Looney of Rock Island was indicted by the grand jury at Peoria, a case still pending against him.

These cases that went to the supreme court involved removal of two cars from Sioux Falls, S. D., to Sioux City, Ia., in September, 1921. The offender was sentenced to eighteen months' imprisonment. The opinion in the case is given by Chief Justice Taft, in which he made the following declarations:

"It is known of all men that the radical change in transportation by the introduction of the automobile, the speed with which it moves and the ease with which evil-minded persons can avoid capture have greatly encouraged and increased crimes. One of the crimes which have been encouraged is the theft of the automobiles themselves and their immediate transportation to places remote from homes of owners.

"Elaborately organized conspiracies for the theft of automobiles and the spiriting of them away into some other state and their sale and other disposition far away from the owner and his neighborhood, have aroused congress to devise some method for defeating the success of these widely spread schemes of larceny. The quick passage of the machines into another state helps to conceal the trial of the thieves, gets the stolen property into another jurisdiction and facilitates the finding of a safe place in which to dispose of the booty at a good price.

"This is a gross misuse of interstate commerce.

"Congress may properly punish such interstate transportation by any one with knowledge of the theft because of its harmful results and its defeat of the property right of those whose machines, against their will, are taken into other jurisdictions."

Operation of the Mississippi-Warrior transportation service for the five months ended May 31 netted the government waterway corporation a profit of $180,000. Last year the loss in the same period was $230,000. Reestablishing water transportation has been a task of years, but reward may be near.

Communication with the McMillan Arctic expedition is being carried on by a 15-year-old Cedar Rapids boy. Description of his apparatus indicates that he made it from a gleanings from his several pockets.

The proposal to call congress in extra session at a date earlier than that fixed for its regular meeting in December has not met with favorable response. The public is willing to wait.

TOM SIMS SAYS

Deepest spot in the Atlantic is 27,965 feet, so that's the tallest any Atlantic fish can grow.

This aerial defense you hear so much about, that isn't to keep the washing off of radio wires.

It's hard to tell what's in a man. New York doctors found one with his heart on the right side.

Dallas, Tex., man struck a match to see if he had any gas, so now he hasn't any car.

Which reminds us of the sheriff who took a man's car. He liked it very much. Had an attachment for it.

Tactfulness depends on circumstances. "Have you ever been in jail?" the writer asked a fellow newspaper man to whom he had just been presented.

"Yes," was the reply, rather proudly given. "Three years, all told; and I have been suppressed 128 times. I think that is the world record."

The unabashed jail bird was Mr. C. U. Song, editor of the Dang-A-Liba of Seoul, Korea, the Nationalist paper of the Korean people.

Because his crime was loyalty to the independence of his people, and his treason was to a foreign conqueror, the much-suppressed editor was proud of it.

And in a free country, on neutral soil, he could say it safely. If now, when he returns home, he should get into trouble by reason of this quotation—trouble is just where he lives.

THE ALARM CLOCK

There on a little stand sat the saucy little alarm clock.

"What kind of a clock shall we repair next?" asked Nick, when Tick Tock had finished tightening and oiling and winding the nice old grandmother clock in the cherry case that stood on the floor.

"I think we had better go and see about Mister Smith's alarm clock," said Tick Tock, the clock fairy.

"Pooh!" cried Nick. "A common old alarm clock! Why, they are only good to make a noise."

"You certainly should be smacked soundly for saying that," said the little clock fairy sharply.

"Why?" asked Nick and Nancy in surprise. "They are ugly, aren't they?"

"Certainly not," said Tick Tock decidedly. "Nothing is uglier than a useful, and an alarm clock is one of the most useful things in the whole wide world. Indeed, you might say that all the business and work in America depends on alarm clocks nowadays, when people have stopped going to bed with the chickens."

"It used to be that when the sun went down, people went to bed," went on the fairy. "Then when the sun came up again, they got up, too, because they were rested. But in these days of electric lights and movies and good books and automobiles and shows and everything on earth almost to keep them awake, people don't go to bed until 11 or 12 o'clock. And, of course, they wouldn't get up until noon if it were not for alarm clocks."

"Daddy says that the man next door wakens him with his lawn mower at 6 o'clock, laugh'd Nick."

"Well," said Tick Tock, "the world can't depend on lawn mowers or the milk-man to waken it up every morning."

"Korea will live."

This, of course, is only the Korean side. There is a Japanese one. But the point is that the Korean side seeks and finds utterance.

Conflict Between China and Japan

China and Japan are presumably too intelligent to come into conflict. But if there were a clash, which would win?

Japan, of course, if it were a mere matter of battle. While the Chinese provincial armies are the largest in the world, they are also about the loosest and the most useless.

Their only function is to fight each other, and to disturb the peace and eat up the substance of China. Against a modern army like the Japanese, they would be helpless.

But the Chinese have other weapons, more oriental and more effective than any trial by battle. China is the one country in the world where non-resistant pacifism really works.

"Let Japanese troops march where they please," they say, "and set up flags and governments if they will. Why bother to fight them? Why bother to do anything when we can be more effective by just doing nothing?"

Japan needs our coal and iron. We simply sit still, and do not mine it.

"Japan needs our trade. We sit and neither buy nor sell."

"Japan needs our food. We eat it ourselves."

"A year, ten years, a thousand years if necessary, we just do nothing but raise and eat our own food, as our ancestors did. We could stand that forever. Japan would be paralyzed in a year. We are not afraid."

Japan Must Help China

Everybody in Japan, except a few jingoists and militarists, realizes this. Therefore, the issue will not be raised.

For the safety of Japan, its relations to China must be constructive and helpful.

Sometimes Chinese and Japanese will not agree on what is helpful; sometimes they will distrust each other; sometimes neither will trust the western powers; sometimes the investment of capital, with its stake in peace and order, will seem invasion or exploitation.

All these things have happened and are happening between the United States and Mexico, whose interests are nevertheless bound by the closest ties. They are bound to happen between China and Japan. But in the long run the long truth prevails.

And the long truth is that it is to Japan's interest to treat China fairly, and that, on the show-down, China is stronger than Japan.

Is Today Your Birth Anniversary?

SATURDAY, SEPT. 5

If so, you are quite moody. And very temperamental. You are swayed by your feelings. And do not use good judgment in business.

You must try to control your temperament.

For you are quite talented. Better judgment will make you a financier.

But your sentimentality makes many friends.

Everybody likes you. And you like everybody.

The whole world is your friend.

SUNDAY, SEPT. 6

If so, despite your determination, you are influenced by others.

You have a great capacity for feeling intensely.

And you love with great ardor. You are very accommodating.

And make friends quite easily. You are rather conservative.

And prefer the good old days. People may call you an old fogey for this.

But you are not being ridiculed. Your life will be easy and happy.

And you will have a successful marriage.

MONDAY, SEPT. 7

If so, you are self-confident. And very determined.

In fact at times a little stubborn. But your tenacity will bring you success.

You are just and honorable. You will work very hard all through your life.

But you will be liberally rewarded. And you will enjoy a great reputation.

DORA ANNABEL REED

(Contributed)

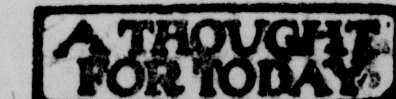

Dora Annabel Reed, eldest daughter of Thomas and Dorothy Reed, was born July 16, 1922, and passed away Sept. 1, 1925 after an illness of twenty-four hours, at the age of three years, one month and fifteen days. All that could be done for her was done that the family circle might not be broken, but in vain. Our Heavenly Father knoweth best and happy home is called upon to give up a loved one while tears of sympathy freely flow and we bow in humble submission to His will. In sadness, but not in darkness, it is in the blessed assurance that this is only a transplanting from the earthly home to the home above, where there are myriads of girls and boys playing in purity and innocence around the throne, snatched from their parents, not in anger but in love and carried in the arms of Jesus to the garden of God's own planting.

A precious one from us has gone, A voice we loved is stilled; A place is vacant in our hearts Which never can be filled.

There are left to mourn little Dora, father, mother, brother, sister, grandparents, uncles, aunts and a host of other relatives and friends.

Funeral services were held Thursday afternoon, Sept. 3 at 2:30 o'clock at the Pine Creek church of the Brethren, conducted by Rev. C. W. Stauffer and with burial in the cemetery nearby.

Enthusiastic Preference

Whole-hearted approval has greeted the New Oakland Sixes from the start. Good words have travelled from lip to lip—now the demand for the cars is spreading like wild-fire. And with good reason:

The New Oakland Sixes are beautiful beyond comparison. They reveal unequalled performance qualities. They incorporate more than 100 improvements including Air Cleaner, Oil Filter, Four-Wheel Brake refinements and, above all, the Harmonic Balancer, an exclusive feature which renders the Oakland engine unmatched in freedom from vibration—yet prices are $70 to $350 lower.

Is it any wonder that buyers are enthusiastic? Is it any wonder that they are forgetting Fords and other Sixes? Is it any wonder that they are placing orders for this car in a volume which is taxing Oakland's capacity to supply?

LABOR BENEFIT TO ALL PEOPLE SAYS FED. HEAD

President of A. F. of L. Recounts Work of Union Labor

BY WILLIAM GREEN
President, American Federation of Labor

Labor Day!
Let us forget, it is well to recall that this is the forty-fourth anniversary of the origin of Labor Day.
A small band of loyal, earnest trade unionists, in their enthusiasm for the benefits gained by organization, paraded in the city of New York on the first Monday of September, 1882.
This was the beginning of Labor Day.

In 1884 the convention of the American Federation of Labor called upon all wage earners irrespective of sex, calling or nationality, to observe Labor Day until "it should be as uncommon for a man to work on Labor Day as on Independence Day."

There is no need to tell how successful that appeal has been. None will deny that that condition is here.

The idea of Labor Day spread throughout the nation. Although a few of the states have not made it a legal holiday it is observed in them just as loyally as in the states where Labor Day laws have been enacted.

From a small handful of men who met in Pittsburg in 1881 and formed what is now the American Federation of Labor, it has grown to enormous proportions, and its influence has revolutionized industry for the benefit of both the wage earners and employers. When it was organized the eight-hour day was simply a dream, for in those times ten hours was universally worked, while many were kept at their tasks, twelve, fourteen, sixteen and more hours a day.

The opposition to the eight-hour day was tremendous. In 1884, the American Federation of Labor took the preliminary steps for a universal demand for eight hours, and in less than two years 200,000 workers in industry gained a shorter workday. By 1892 the eight-hour movement had spread throughout the nation. At the present time those who work more than eight hours are the exception.

Organizers, who served without compensation for years, aided in placing the American trade union movement on a firm basis.

Legislation was sought and not a year passed but some remedial laws have been enacted. The first great victory was the exclusion of the Chinese. While the law was enacted in 1882, it was many years later before it was so changed that the American people were fully protected from that sort of immigration.

Then came the federal eight-hour law and the seamen's act, which freed the last slaves in the United States.

Many people do not know that the trade union movement was the earliest advocate of compulsory education.
At the same time it demanded that children should not be permitted to work for wages but should be sent to school and given every opportunity for recreation. The years have elapsed since then but the struggle to educate the masses and to bring freedom from gainful occupations to the children has actively continued. While two laws enacted by Congress prohibited children at a tender age from working at gainful occupations they were declared unconstitutional.

Now we have a proposed amendment to the constitution which if adopted will confer upon Congress authority to pass statutory legislation making child labor free. Bitter and malignant opposition is being made to this worthy cause. But the American Federation of Labor will continue to fight until it has made it possible for Congress to protect the nation's children from industrial exploitation.

The Saturday half-holiday and the forty-four week are the results of trade union agitation.

The American Federation of Labor and its affiliated organizations have not only brought greater happiness in the lives of the wage earners but in the nation's hour of danger it pledged the loyalty of its members to the government of the United States. And that pledge was kept.

The American Federation of Labor is never at a loss what to do in any great crisis. And this was exemplified a thousandfold in its attitude during the great war.

Among the other victories and activities which no one can deny to Labor are workmen's compensation laws, the restriction of immigration, preventing the importation of labor under contract, collective bargaining, elimination of the sweat-shop evil,
abolition of tenement-house labor, crusade against the white plague by insisting upon sanitary workshops and condemnation of the sale of narcotics.

One reason for the success of the legislation urged by the American Federation of Labor is that it benefits all the people except the privileged few. Labor asks for nothing that is not good for the people generally.

It has stood by the farmer in his efforts for economic advancement. It always has supported any practical legislation that would benefit the farmers. It has aided every movement that has for its purpose the advancement of humanity.

We should make it our endeavor to accomplish greater and greater results so that on our next Labor Day we can say we as we have on every other Labor Day that "the gains for labor this year are greater than the gains of last year."

GREATEST OGLE CO. FAIR OPENS ON LABOR DAY

Unusually Fine Program Arranged for Annual Exposition

Everything is all set for the Ogle County Fair next week and with good weather it should be the best fair ever on the local grounds. With the threshing season over, farmers and stockmen are turning their attention to exhibits of livestock and farm products and the exhibits this year bid fair to outdo by far those of several years past. The new model dairy barn, built through the efforts of Stanley McNeese field man of the Carnation Milk Products Co., in Oregon, is a fine piece of work and should prove a big drawing card. The new barn is equipped with the latest equipment on the market, and a modern milk house joins it. The barn has room for eight head of cattle. Some benches have been made which are to set around the barn, so visitors may stop for a while and rest in the shade.
The Association has assurances of several good sized herds of cattle, including the Ogle County herd of Holsteins which took second premium at the Central States Fair, Aurora, last week.

Horse breeders have also begun to speak for space, one man residing in Winnebago county having 16 head of fancy draft horses to exhibit here.
Swine breeders are coming strong this year with a large entry, and poultry, pet stock, fancy work, grains, vegetables will be on hand in abundance.

The racing program will be first class in every respect, as a good bunch of the entries are in for the events and we look for close contests all down the line. The 2:20 Stake Trot which closed in June and will be raced off Monday, Sept. 7, should be a red hot race as the purse will be around $600, and two or three of the entries are quite evenly matched.

The Farmers' Races for Wednesday and Friday which are half mile heats, pace or trots, have a big string of entries, and will be hotly contested.

Concession space is practically all sold out and some of the concession people who bought space are selling it to others at a premium. There never were more concessions on the road than today—most of them are good, clean, legitimate stuff—a few are crooked, and the latter class can't stay long at the Ogle County Fair. The gyper and the grafter isn't wanted on our grounds. If perchance he misrepresents and gets away, any person in attendance at the fair who is cheated will confer a favor on the management by calling their attention to it at once.

The free acts, of which there are eight, are all high class, several of them being new and novel to this section. They have been secured with the aim of pleasing all tastes and will comprise as good an hour and a half vaudeville program as you will see any place.

For the night fair on Monday and Thursday night, a special added feature to the program will be a grand fireworks display put on by the Kirtz Fireworks Co., Indianapolis, Ind. The fireworks program will consist of set pieces, aerial displays and bombs and others. For Monday night the Kable Bros. 65-piece band of Mt. Morris will give a special program and Thursday night the combined Oregon and Polo bands will stage an extra special number. All exhibits will be on display each night. Admission to the night fair is 25 cents and grandstand tickets are 25 cents, with automobiles free.

The Farmers' Race at the Ogle County Fair gives promise of being a hot one, as there are a goodly string of entries and it is hard to pick out just who can nose out ahead. The mule race on Friday also will no doubt have at least four starters, however, mules can be entered any time up until the day of the race. Entries for the Farmers Race closed Monday of this week.

Wednesday will be a free day for all children, and a special attraction besides the horse racing is six bicycle races for various prizes.

NOT FRIENDS

London—A flatterer is said to be a beast that beth smiling. But it is hard to know them from friends, they are so obsequious and full of protestations; for as a wolf resembles a dog, so doth a flatterer a friend.—Sir

Mandy Brooks, former Columbus, American Association slugger, who showed great form with the stick when he first came to the Cubs, has been having a hard time to connect with the ball. In his last 19 times up he has failed to get a hit and only once was he able to smash the ball to the outfield.

Bill Terry of the Giants, who has a habit of coming through just at the time when his club needs a blow, went true to form yesterday when New York and the Phillies were in a 5-5 deadlock in the tenth. Bill's blow was a four bagger, his tenth of the year.

The veteran Art Nehf did a great piece of relief pitching when he stepped to the hill after Jack Bentley and Johnny Wisner had retired to the showers. Art held the Phillies runless for six innings and retired six batters on strikes, three of them whiffing in the tenth after the Giants had taken the lead.

Freddie Leach of the Phillies crashed out two hits against the Giants. One of the blows was good for two bases. He also scored two of the Phillies five markers.

Jimmy Caveney, hustling infielder of the Reds, was unable to take his position at short yesterday owing to a fractured rib which resulted from a collision with Gonzales during the second game of the double header with the Cubs Thursday.

If Clark Pettigrew can bolster up his batting a little more it's going to be a tough job to run him out of the job at short. Since he stepped into Maranville's shoes he is treating the fans to one of the best spectacles of fielding they have seen for a long time. He has the speed and covers lots of ground. Yesterday he accepted thirteen chances without a slip and was pivot man in one speedy double killing.

Rogers Hornsby, champion batter of the National League cracked out three hits, including a double and homer, his 35th.

An easy way to sell anything is to be classified in the Telegraph. Try one today.

This twisted mass of wreckage is all that remains of the Shenandoah, pride of the navy's lighter-than-air forces. Among the huge cylinders which the Ohio storm snapped as if they were thin sticks of wood can be seen the tanks of helium, the valuable non-inflammable gas used. Had hydrogen been in these tanks an explosion and fire would have been almost certain, possibly causing a much greater loss of life.

SPORT BRIEFS

By Associated Press Leased Wire
New York—Phil Rosenberg, New York, bantam champion, hurt his hand in an exhibition bout and cannot meet Carl Tremaine in Cleveland, Sept. 22.

New York—Mike McTigue, former light heavyweight titlist, has been poisoning and will be out of the ring for a month.

Buffalo—Jimmy Slattery, Buffalo light heavyweight, knocked out Frank Carpenter of Rockaway in the fourth round.

Omaha—Tommy Grogan, Nebraska featherweight and Matt Smith, Iowa, boxed ten rounds to a draw.

New York—Tex Rickard signed Tony Maunillo, New Orleans light heavyweight, to meet Tommy Loughran, Philadelphia at the Yankee Stadium Friday.

Scranton, Pa.—Jimmy Goodrich, world's lightweight champion by recognition of the New York Boxing Commission, and Billy Pollock, Scranton, fought a ten round draw.

Portland, Ore.—Tiny Kid Herman, Portland heavyweight, knocked out George Timmon, Omaha Indian, in thirty seconds after the gong in the first round.

Hollywood, Calif.—Ace Hudkins, Nebraska lightweight, outpointed Dick Hoppe, Oakland, in ten rounds.

Jones Meets Townsman in Final of Golf Match
Oakmont, Pa., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Two young men from Atlanta are left in the final round of the national amateur golf tournament.

Today on the difficult links of the Oakmont Country Club, Bobby Jones, victor at Merion, a year ago will meet his bosom friend, Watts Gunn for the 1925 crown—Bobby in an effort to repeat, and Gunn attempting to win his first title of note.

In winning into the finals again, Jones conquered George Van Elm of Los Angeles.

Gunn, whose record 42 holes for 5 under par in his previous matches had been the tournament sensation, found a tartar in Dick Jones of White Plains, N. Y., but finally after the lead had shifted in the morning, eliminated him in convincing fashion in the afternoon 5-3, sinking a 45 foot putt at the 33rd to complete the round.

Steel Helmets Saved

Lives of Two Jockies

Winnipeg, Sept. 5.—(AP)—Steel helmets, now part of the regulation jockey equipment of Manitoba race tracks saved the lives of two riders during the race meet at Whittier Park yesterday.

Jockey Woodstock was thrown when his mount stumbled. He was kicked on the head by another horse, but escaped without a scratch.

Jockey Morton's mount fell and the rider was thrown beneath the flying heels of the next horse. A dent of nearly two inches was made in his helmet and although stunned, he was not seriously injured.

Seventy-Year Old Man Wins British Trophy

London, Sept. 5.—(AP)—A 70-year-old golfer has succeeded in winning the jubilee vase of the Royal & Ancient Club of St. Andrew, although the trophy was contested for by most of the noted British amateurs, including Cyril Tolley.

The winner was Spencer Colman, one of the oldest first class golfers in the country. More than a quarter century ago with a handicap of three he won the Calcutta cup and a score of other prizes.

back was to be revenged on the woman who felled her.

She wanted to make the whole world suffer for her own sins, and she succeeded in doing it for a long while, but at last fate overtook her. If her conscience did not cry out against her, her stomach did—Alone and Hungry—that is the head that might be written over most of those who prey upon society, when they become old.

The man or woman who seeks to wrest wealth from those who have honestly earned it will surely come to a time and place where the friends they have betrayed will have forsaken them, and they will stare the last great adventure in the face with great fear and trembling.

It is a rather peculiar state of affairs that Mrs. John Alden Prescott's pearls are woven in with this sordid tragedy. It makes one think that the old tradition of bad luck following in the wake of pearls is a true one.

The jewels have contacted with the highest and the lowest. They have caused the death of one young girl in the heyday of her beauty, and they have given a woman evidently old and submerged in sin a taste of what a lingering death of starvation may mean.

About the jewels belonging to Mrs. Prescott there has hung romance, jealousy, unhappiness and sin. The string is supposed to be the most valuable in the United States, but Mrs. Prescott has been heard to say that she hopes she will never feel them on her neck again. One rather thinks that no woman would ever wear splendid jewels if she could know their histories. There is not a valuable string of pearls, not a great diamond or ruby or emerald in the United States today that has not had a history of bloodshed and tragedy.

One awaits the conclusion of the story of the Prescott pearls in the future with interest.

MAY SEYMOUR FOOT LOOSE

by BEATRICE BURTON SEQUEL TO "THE FLAPPER WIFE"

ONEA

THE STORY SO FAR:

MAY SEYMOUR, whose husband killed himself because of her love affair with another man, returns to her home town after a year's absence. She sells her property, and with her tiny fortune in cash, sets out to find and marry a man with money.

At Atlantic City she meets HERBERT WATERBURY and DAN SPRAGUE, through a divorcee, MRS. CARLOTTA FROLKING. Both men pay suit to May, greatly to the distress of Carlotta who has long been in love with Dan. She and May become great friends, however, and Carlotta invites May to spend the winter with her in California.

May finds Dan most attractive; but she sets her cap for Waterbury, having made up her mind that he is the rich husband she is looking for. Finally he proposes, and May accepts him. She gives him all her money to invest for her. And immediately he disappears with it.

Peniless, May sells her jewelry and her fur coat to buy a railroad ticket to Los Altos, to visit Carlotta in her bungalow.

On the way, she stops off to visit her friends, DICK GREGORY and GLOTTA, his wife. One day while lunching downtown with Gloria May meets ULYSSES FORGAN, a wealthy widower who has been mildly in love with her. Before she leaves for Los Altos, he proposes to her. May refuses him, but at the same time tells him that she likes him better than any man on earth.

On the train bound for Los Altos she meets Dan Sprague.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

"I'll see myself, or only her ghost?" Dan asked, and May laughed and gave him her hand.

"See, I'm real flesh and blood!" she cried gaily. "Nothing ghostly about me!"

Holding her warm hand between his palms, Dan questioned her with puzzled eyes.

"Then what are you doing here in this neck of the woods all by yourself?" he wanted to know. "The last I saw of you, you were all set to marry Herbie Waterbury. How did you lose him?"

May shrugged her shoulders. "I didn't lose him. . . I just didn't marry him," she said indifferently. "Can't a woman change her mind once in a while?"

She had decided in a flash that she was not going to tell Dan anything about her affairs. She remembered that Carlotta had hinted that he was not to be trusted any more than Herbie was!

"You hear from him, don't you?" she asked suddenly. "He's probably written you all about me."

Dan shook his head. "No, indeed, I hardly ever hear from Herbie," he said. "We've known each other for ten or fifteen years, and in all that time I don't believe I've had the scratch of a pen from him. He's no great friend of mine."

"Well, you haven't answered my question," he reminded her. "What are you doing in this part of the world?"

"I imagine I'm doing what you're doing. . . traveling toward Los Altos and Carlotta," May answered him.

And then she saw that he was not listening to her. He had turned and was staring down the aisle of the train.

May stared also. At the far end of the car sat a girl whom May

"Why, of course," he said, "your money doesn't mean a thing in my life. . . it's you I want."

mentally termed a "dizzy" blond. . . a blond whose pink-and-whiteness undoubtedly came from a variety case. She was dressed in deep purple, and she returned Dan's stare with unashamed interest.

As May looked at her, she smiled at him with wide blue eyes that were like the movable eyes of a French doll.

"Who's your girl friend, Dan?" May asked idly.

Dan started, laughed and looked away.

"Search me," he said carelessly. "All I know is that she's been doing her damndest to flirt with me for the last fifteen minutes. Have you had your lunch?"

May said she hadn't, and two minutes later they were sitting opposite each other in the dining-car. Before they had time to give their order the waiter, the chemical blond had taken her seat at the table across from them.

"Dan," May said to him in an amused undertone, "This woman's after you. You'd better watch your step."

Dan smiled without looking up from the menu.

"There's only one woman in the world who's dangerous to me," he remarked.

"Who's that? Carlotta?" May asked.

Again Dan smiled. He picked up a pencil and wrote their order on the waiter's pad before he answered. "Isn't any man in danger who's in love with you?" he asked.

Then, as May said nothing, he went on: "You made old Herbie think you were crazy about him, and then, as far as I can see, you dropped him like a hot cake."

"And remember what you did to me? . . . Made poogey eyes at me for four or five days until I was running around in circles. But the minute I asked you to marry me, what did you do? Bawled the life out of me for falling for you! What's your game, any way?"

May looked him square in the face. "I didn't bawl you out for making love to me, Dan," she contradicted him. "I told you you ought to marry Carlotta, and so you should. You took her away from her husband. . ."

Dan looked his surprise. "It's he," he asked. "Not on your life! She hated the old boy long before I arrived on the scene! She just attached herself to me like a barnacle to the bottom of a ship, and sailed away with me! I never wanted her to come along."

May smiled sarcastically. "Dan, I can't believe you when you say that," she answered quietly. "No woman leaves a perfectly good husband unless some other man is persuading her to leave. And Carlotta admits that Frolking was a pretty good husband. You just let her fall in love with you. Wasn't that the way it was, really?"

Dan's answer was surprising. "I wouldn't let any other woman in the world talk to me the way you're talking to me," he said. "You call me a rotter and a cad, and I sit here and take it. I guess I must be in love with you. . . really crazy about you, I mean."

The arrival of the waiter with the soup cut short this conversation. Then the blond across the aisle evidently decided to attract Dan's attention by dropping her bag on the floor. Unfortunately it opened and out tumbled a cake of the brightest red rouge May had ever seen, a lip stick and an eyebrow pencil. She threw up her head and laughed at Dan's expression as he beheld this mishap.

"Lady seems to have dropped her complexion," she murmured as Dan put the cosmetics back into the bag and returned it to the owner.

"Thank you so much," the blond smiled, looking at him soulfully from under her sticky eyelashes.

May could have sworn that her fingers stroked his as she took the bag from him.

"Careless of me to drop it, but I get so nervous and jumpy sitting on a train without a soul to talk to! Don't you?"

"Jumpy as a cat! I could just bite a butterfly this minute!" Dan laughed.

Then his face sobered, and he returned to his food and to May.

"So you think I treated Carlotta badly. . .," he began, but a movement from the girl across the aisle stopped him.

She had apparently made up her mind to talk. This time as she leaned toward them and opened her lips, she included May in her smile.

"If you folks had a pack of cards along, I could tell your fortunes," she drawled. "I do it awfully well. . . honest. I've foretold deaths and marriages and everything. I learned how to do it at school from my room-mate. Awful rich people. I went to an awful swell school. . . I'm in the movies now."

She sat back and waited for this to sink in.

"I've never seen you on the screen," May answered coldly.

"I'm there, though," the blond answered complacently. "You may not have heard of me yet, but you will. . . Goldie Gay."

"Is that your own name. . . Goldie Gay?" asked Dan.

Goldie shook her head. "No, indeed," she said haughtily. "Papa never would let me drag the family name into the films! . . . You'd be surprised to know who I really am."

Dan pretended astonishment. "Did you notice that big fat man sitting across from you in the Pullman?" Goldie suddenly asked May.

"Yes," answered May who remembered an elephantine man in an elephant-gray suit who had ogled her all morning. "What about him?"

"Nothing. . . only he's Lemuel Fishback, the head of High-Art Films," declared Goldie in a hushed tone. "I been trying to screw up my nerve to go and ask him for a job for the last hour."

She sighed. "Seems as if I can't, though," she mourned. "I'm not one of those pushing girls. Lord, I wish he'd notice me! They say that's the only way anybody crashes into the films these days. . . by having some producer or director notice 'em and give 'em a part."

She rose presently.

"I guess I'll go and walk past him a few more times," she said, "and see if he'll take a look."

She paused by the table and eyed Dan.

"Listen, Mr. What's-your-name, I can read palms," she went on. "After you've finished your lunch, I'll read yours, if you want me to."

"Are you going to let her read your palm?" May asked when Goldie had gone, leaving the air heavy with the scent of strong perfume.

"Sure I am," Dan answered. "May as well. . . I'll help to pass the time away."

When he had taken May back to her seat, he sauntered down to the end of the car where Goldie Gay of the films awaited him.

HE came back a half hour later, grinning from ear to ear; and dropped down beside May.

"She says I'm going to marry a blond," he informed her.

May betrayed no interest in this news.

"But I'm not," he went on, leaning closer to her. "Not if a certain gray-eyed brunet will have me for her second husband. Will she?"

"Do you mean me?" asked May with wide, innocent eyes, and felt Dan's hand close over her wrist in a grip that hurt.

"Of course, I mean you, and you know it!" he said in a whisper. "And if it weren't for the people on this train, I'd take you in my arms and show you how much I mean it!"

turned Tuesday to their home in Omaha, Neb.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Morgan and son Merrill spent Friday in Chicago sight seeing.

Mrs. David Weigle and daughter Miss Gertrude delightedly entertained the Presbyterian Sunday school at their home Tuesday evening with Miss Virginia Speelman the guest of honor. A scramble dinner was most heartily enjoyed on the beautiful lawn, which was lighted by electric light and there which made the tables look very pretty. The entertainment of the evening was a musical wedding which proved very interesting and extremely amusing, and was better witnessed than told. Those taking part in the wedding were: Fred Gross, minister; Fred J. Krehl, groom, and the bride, David Weigle, who was without doubt one of the most elaborate dressed brides we have ever been permitted to see. The long wedding veil, lace curtain, was very beautiful as well as the entire costume which we are informed was the handiwork of Miss Bertha Reigle. In one corner of the room was a beautiful wedding bell under which the happy couple were married. At the appointed time Miss Gertrude Weigle and Miss Elsie Lott sang "I Love You Truly," after which Miss Weigle played the wedding march. Mr. Gross preceded dressed in full ministerial costume followed by the bride and groom. Following them were Miss Lucille Kelly as bridesmaid and Frank Senger as best man, next came the ring bearer, Mrs. Joel Senger, who carried a large head of cabbage in which was the ring, following her were the two flower girls, Mrs. Fred Gross and Miss Virgie Crawford carrying a large market basket which had in it paper flowers which were strewn in the bride's pathway. The wedding ceremony then followed which it is impossible to repeat but suffice to say it was one hearty laugh from start to finish. At the conclusion of the ceremony, Miss Lott sang "He Leadeth Me." The questions that were given to the bride and groom were addressed to them as Virginia and Earnest. After the merriment of the wedding had subsided, and all had assured Fred Gross that he had missed his calling and should have been a minister, Miss Speelman was surprised with a miscellaneous shower. She received many useful and beautiful gifts of which she is most worthy. Mr. and Mrs. John Charters of Ashton were out of town guests. Miss Virginia Speelman and Earnest Welshaar of Ashton are to be married in the near future.

Misses Pearl Albright and Kathryn Dauton entertained at the Albright home Wednesday night, Miss Edith Pomeroy with a surprise miscellaneous shower. Many beautiful gifts were received and during the evening refreshments were served. Miss Edith Pomeroy and M. Deward Brooks of Montrose, Colo., are to be married in the near future.

Miss Emaline Underwood of Dixon spent the past week at the home of her grandmother Mrs. Mary Buck.

Mrs. Myrtle MacGregor and daughter Jean who have been visiting at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Dysart, left Tuesday for Chicago for a few days visit before returning to their home in Brooklyn, New York.

Mrs. Susan Lott and daughter Miss Elsie entertained with dinner Sunday: Mr. and Mrs. Ruben Eicholtz, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Weyant of Dixon and Hiram Eicholtz of Nachusa.

Miss Elizabeth Horn of Evanston visited the past week at the home of her grandmother Mrs. C. W. Trostle.

Mrs. Al Dysart of Sycamore visited Wednesday at the home of her sister Mrs. C. W. Trostle.

Walter Blank and family and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Blank spent the week end at White Rock.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Crawford of Dixon were Sunday visitors at the home of her sister Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln Haffensbarger.

Mr. and Mrs. John Baker, Mr. and Mrs. Medrie Hussey and Mr. and Mrs.

Charles Baker and baby motored to West Chicago Sunday where they spent the day at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bratton.

Arthur Kreitzer of Chicago visited with relatives here Sunday.

John Mong returned Tuesday from Norborne, Mo., where he had been looking after his lane of the Methodist Triangle Class and interests.

The Triangle Class of the Methodist Sunday school, taught by Miss Flora Wicker, enjoyed a social last evening at the home of Miss Nona Buck.

The scramble supper was most thoroughly enjoyed which was spread in real picnic style on the lawn. The guest of honor, Mrs. Mary Buck, who has passed her eighty-second birthday anniversary, offered thanks for the meal, after which ample justice was done to the same. After refreshments the class returned to the house where a short business meeting was held at which time officers were elected for the ensuing year: President—Mrs. Sterling Wilson; Vice-president—Miss Ethel Sheap; Secretary—Miss Nona Buck; Treasurer—Mrs. George Spangler; Social Committee—Mrs. Harry Wilkins and Miss Emma Schultz. The evening was spent in visiting and listening to a splendid concert over the radio. The Triangle class is justly proud of its youngest member, little Marion Crawford, who is but eight months old, and who did her share of entertaining at the social. Those present to enjoy the happy event: Miss Flora Wicker, Mrs. George Spangler, Mrs. Harry Trostle, Mrs. Harry Wilkins, Mrs. Arthur Crawford and baby, Mrs. Sterling Wilson, Misses Ethel Sheap, Emma Schultz, Helen Ling, Elizabeth Dodson, Louise Schultz, Dorothy Durkes, Nona Buck and Grace Pearl and Mrs. Mary Buck as guest of honor.

The Woman's Club held its first meeting of the new year Tuesday Sept. 1, at the home of Mrs. Holly. A good attendance was present, with two visitors, Mrs. Tremley of Boise, Idaho and Mrs. Carrie Taylor Jones of Washington, D. C. After a short business session, the program, "Looking Forward," was presented. The roll call was responded to by "Signs that never fail," and proved amusing and instructive. Mrs. Durkes, the president, gave a review of work accomplished by the club during the past year, and expressed her hope for a worth while year to come. She particularly stressed the wish that the club might cooperate with other organizations working for community good.

The program committee, consisting of the heads of departments, each presented an outline of her plans of work for the year, either personally or by proxy. Miss Maude Conlon, department of Cakes, plans a study of government, legislation, and citizenship, with a special study of the Tax Amendment which is to be voted on this fall, for the October meeting. At the April meeting she will conduct a "Know your community" class, studying the local government, its offices, duties, powers, etc.

Miss Clara Lahman, head of the Fine Arts department, is planning special programs along the lines of literature, music and art. One specially strong part of her work will be the consideration of the choice of the best books for the home.

Mrs. Arthur Morris, department of American Homes, has a varied line of study planned. Besides the work in the line of home economics which naturally seems foremost in her department, she will consider topics on conservation of natural beauty—flowers, trees, birds, etc., also the history, advantages and possibilities of the home town.

Mrs. Charles Sunday, department of Community Service, is planning to carry out the line of work adopted by this department of the State Federation of Women's Clubs, so far as possible, which is that of creating an in-
